The ISSC MK22 offered three adjustment points on the stock. Its centerfire counterpart, the FNH SCAR rifle, offers six points of adjustment.

With the stock folded and locked, the ISSC MK22 was ready for transport. The charging handle can be switched to any one of three positions on either side.

The ambidextrous magazine release (arrow) was easy to find on either side. The ambidextrous safety lever was distinctive.

By pressing the upper button we raised the comb for use with optics. Pressing the lower button allowed us to fold the stock.
