Above: The three-dot sight system was easy to see in good light. Right: The frame design allowed us to get a good high hold on the gun — a boon to control.

Clutter, or utility? Every shooter must decide for himself. The controls here are, from right, the ambi decocker, slide release, lever and takedown lever. Behind the trigger guard is the magazine-release button, which was finicky in our view. Press the button, and most of the time, magazines wouldn't fully exit the gun.
